

KRIJN DE KONING, 2007

On the occasion that the 2007 Sikkens Prize was awarded to Krijn de Koning, a large publication was published on his work.

With his spatial sculptures, which are often temporary and always specific to a particular place, Krijn de Koning examines the influence of the architectural environment on the physical and mental experience of a space. The route, scale, color and way in which beauty is revealed play an important role in this.

In addition to two texts reflecting on this by Sven Lütticken and Bas Heijne, the publication contains a visual summary of Krijn de Koning's work in which illustrations of art works alternate with models and drawings, but also with inspirational photographs taken by the artist.
